

Report of Expert talk on “Joys of being a Production Engineer”

Mechanical Engineering Department has arranged an expert talk on “Joys of being a Production Engineer” on 19 March 2019. The expert lecture has been delivered by Mr.Pralhad Dabholkar, a double Graduate from IIT Mumbai in Mechanical and Aeronautical Engineering, MD of Tucson Hydrocontrols. He has explained briefly about basics of production engineering, skill required for production Engineer, Hydraulic and manufacturing systems, particularly cutting and abrasive machining process. He also covered importance of financial knowledge, Human resource management and critical thinking as being a production engineer. At the end he explained constant learning and improvement with existing technology is a key aspect for Production Engineer. Around 85 students of final year and faculty member attended the expert lecture. The session is important for the students related to final year subject Product development and value Engineering.

